

IMGS Location Publisher Pre-Planning

Web Mapping Made Easy

IMGS Location Publisher Pre-Planning is an easy-to-use website for members of the public to submit pre-planning enquiries to local authorities regarding the likelihood of being granted planning permission on a site.

Once the enquiries are recorded, a spatial report is automatically generated and provided to the user. The report contains critical planning information such as the development zone the site is and its proximity to heritage areas, national monuments and protected structures – all which will have a bearing on the likelihood of planning permission being granted.

New Features

- Easy to use mapping tools to capture the site location
- The homepage is fully configurable to allow an organisation to capture specific user details required i.e. email, county, town land, town etc.
- Support for Ordnance Survey Ireland's MapGenie Maps
- The map of the selected area can be added to the spatial report (to facilitate printing)
- The comprehensive spatial report allows for layer ordering and hyperlinked results

Process

1. A member of the public visits the IMGS Location Publisher Pre-Planning website, enters some basic details, draws a boundary and submits a request for the planning authority report.
2. A spatial report is automatically generated and they can use it as a basic reference to how the planning authority may advise on their proposed development.
3. An email of the request can then be sent to the planning authority (and also to the member of the public), attaching a reference number that can be used in the face to face meetings that may take place between both parties.
